Heavier Snow in Northern Tier of Counties Has Slowed Work Considerably

Spring work and seeding is about a week behind last year and the average year in North Dakota, according to crop reports received from 17 counties in the state for the period ending last Saturday. With 2,000 acres of wheat seeded last week, LaMoure county leads the state in progress of spring work, on the basis of the counties reporting to the county agricultural extension leader at Fargo.

With the exception of LaMoure county, reports show that very few farmers were able to get into the fields last week. Snow and rain was general over the state Thursday and Friday, and put a stop to the little work that had been started. Seeding will not begin before next week in the northern tier of counties, according to the reports. With these exceptions, a few farmers are reported to have seeded wheat in the Red River Valley, central part of the state, and Missouri Slope district. Reports from the Slope counties and northwestern part of the state indicate that moisture is plentiful. A few counties report probable decreases in wheat acreages, and several declare that labor is needed.

Reports state that it is too early to tell how winter rye, winter wheat, alfalfa and sweet clover have come through the winter, although there has been some freezing and thawing that might cause damage. Gophers and prairie dogs are already out and poisoning campaigns are being planned in a number of counties.

Figures of the United States department of agriculture show that the average date when seeding of wheat begins in North Dakota is April 8, becomes general April 21, and ends May 9. The indications at present are that seeding cannot become general until after the middle of next week, or about April 27.

Weather conditions since last week have been favorable to hasten field work, according to reports received by R. E. Spencer, observer in charge of the Morehead station of the U. S. weather bureau. Minimum temperatures ranged from 4 to 12 degrees above freezing Wednesday morning at Williston, Devils Lake, Bismarck and Fargo, while maximum temperatures ranged from 50 to 70 at these points. With the exception of a local shower at Larimore last Sunday, no rain or snow has been reported in the state since the storm of last Friday and Saturday.

Crop Reports from the individual counties were received at the office of John W. Haw, county agent leader, at the North Dakota Agricultural College, from county extension agents in the state. The purpose of the reports is explained in a statement from the Extension division of the Agricultural college as follows:

"Crop reports will be issued weekly during the growing season based on individual reports of county extension agents received from county extension agents. These reports will be published each Thursday for the period ending the preceding Saturday. It is believed that these crop reports will have little effect on the market price of grain," is the statement. "The grain trade already has developed extensive channels for securing information regarding crop conditions. This information, however, is not ordinarily available to the farmers and business men of North Dakota, and it is for the purpose of giving the public authentic, unembellished crop information that the reports will be issued."

Tallahassee, Fla., April 18. Admission that he was employed as a "whipping boss" was made before the legislative investigation on committee today by Walter Higginbotham. He is under indictment for murder in connection with the death of Martin Tabert and is out on $10,000 bond.

Tallahassee, Fla., Apr. 19.—Walter Higginbotham, convict-boss of the Putnam Lumber company at Clara, Fla., and now under indictment charged with murder in connection with the death of Martin Tabert of North Dakota, came here to appear before the joint legislative committee investigating Tabert's death.

Working up to the first case in abolishing the whip in Florida camps, the senate received from the lower house an amendment to the present statute which would do away with whipping as a punishment now legally employed.

Over the opposition of 15 negative votes the bill passed the house late yesterday with less debate and crossfire than had been expected. The main theme of the opposition centered on the inability to control negro convicts at times without the use of the lash.

The special joint committee investigating Tabert's death continued to call witnesses.

Mrs. Mayce Mills and Mrs. Ollie Rhodes of Clara told the committee that Tabert had been given a Christian burial with preaching by an itinerant minister. An employee of the lumber company refuted previous testimony that Tabert's coffin had cost but $10 and offered a receipt to show that it cost $20.

Dr. T. Capers Jones, camp physician, testified that he had attended Tabert prior to his death, that Tabert said nothing to him of having been beaten, that Tabert's body showed no evidence of cuts and that he had made out the death certificate to show that Tabert died of (Continued on page three).

HOODED BAND MEN ASKED TO SUBMIT ARREST

15 Defendants Notified by Sheriff at Bastrop to

MURDER CHARGES MADE

Head of Ku Klux Klan Is Charged with Several
Violations of Law

Bastrop, La., April 19.—Sheriff Fred Carpenter early today notified 15 defendants in the Morehouse hooded band cases to surrender to him at the court house here before noon today. Those others charged in connection with the crime are out of the jurisdiction of the sheriff. The state charges all defendants are Ku Klux Klansmen.

Smith Stevenson, Fred Higginbotham and Newt N. Gray surrendered to the sheriff this morning. They said they were ready to make bond and would prepare to fight their cases in court. Capt. J. K. Skipwith, called a copy of the Morehouse Ku Klux Klan, telephoned the sheriff he would surrender.

The bills of information drawn by Attorney General A. B. Cocco were brought to Bastrop late yesterday by District Attorney David I. Garrett and filed with the clerk of court of the sixth judicial district, who immediately issued the warrants and copies of the bills to the sheriff. The most serious of the charges was conspiracy to murder. Two such charges were made against Capt. Skipwith. There were no other murder conspiracy charges filed.

Capt. Skipwith also was charged with carrying fire arms on the premises of another, compelling a person to leave his home, compelling a person to leave an automobile, compelling a person to leave his place of business and three charges of assault.

There were several bills of information filed against Dr. B. M. McKinn, former mayor of Mer Rouge, and now a student at John Hopkins university including conspiring to assault a person, conspiring to compel a person to leave the parish and assault with a dangerous weapon.

SENSATIONAL SLUMP

New York, April 19.—Raw Sugar futures took a perpendicular drop of approximately 50 points on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange today upon receipt of the government suit to enjoin trading in sugar futures. Heavy general selling developed as soon as news of the injunction suit reached the floor. The drop ranged from 30 to 74 points but were followed by a rally which carried prices back 45 points.

Washington, April 19.—Injunction proceedings to shut off trading in sugar proceedings complete were instituted in New York today by the federal government.

The government bill, prepared under the personal direction of Attorney General Daugherty after consultation with President Harding, asked the court to prevent the New York sugar and coffee exchange permanently from entering into or permitting any transactions in sugar "unless the persons purporting to make such sales has in his possession or under his control a supply of sugar adequate to meet the requirements of such transactions."

The action is requested, the government says, as a result of "an orgy of speculation" which has driven up the price of sugar to the consumer and which during February enriched the pocketbooks of brokers to $900,000. A conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce is charged and officials of the exchange and of the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing House Association against which the injunction would be directed jointly with the exchange are asked to appear in court and answer the government's allegations.

United States Attorney Hayward, who was in charge locally of the investigation which resulted in the suit, characterized the procedure as "united effort on the part of federal officials to make the gamblers in sugar remove the roulette wheel from the American breakfast table."

EARLY SOLUTION—OR WAR!

Future of Ruhr Tangle, German Steel Head Tells
Tribune Correspondent

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.
Special Cable to NEA Service and
The Bismarck Tribune.

Hamborn, Ruhr, April 19.—Early settlement of the Ruhr question and reparations—or war.

This is the view of Fritz Thyssen, son of Germany's Carnegie, in active control over the enormous Thyssen works which employ 70,000 hands.

To get to Fritz Thyssen to interview him was no easy task. Not that young Thyssen is inaccessible, but the sheer physical obstacles in the way were numerous. First I had to find an automobile to take me from Dueseldorf to Hamborn, a distance of about 25 miles. No trains were running. The German trainmen had struck and the French had not yet got the roads working.

This difficulty overcome—and autos for hire are scarce, many have been requisitioned by the French—my next move was to obtain a "Laissez Passer" from the army of occupation. This was readily granted, for the French are not trying to keep a newspaper correspondent cooped up in hand-foes has been reported. They are perfectly free to go and come as they please once the proper papers are obtained.

I found Thyssen in his office at the works here—an attractive, though somewhat somber office with a 12-foot wainscoting of heavy black oak. Over the massive table in the center of the room a huge chandelier of wrought-iron hung, draped in those light on the table only, leaving the rest of the room in shadow.

The stained glass windows contained likenesses of U-boats, huge howitzers firing, war planes soaring, and such like.

Preaching Quiet.

Thyssen is of the Schwab type, somewhat heavy and inclined to smile, rather bitter smiles almost constantly.

"We are accused," he told me, "of trying to stir up trouble against the French in the Ruhr. The contrary is true. Every industrialist in the occupied area is preaching calm."

Wore it not so, there is no telling what might happen. Chancellor Cuno himself came here from Berlin to plead with the leaders to keep their men quiet—that that was the way to help the government. He did not come, as was said, to preach resistance.

"How much longer we can hold the people down I do not know. They are getting bitter daily. And they are still at work. When we are forced to shut down—we can't keep piling up stock which we are unable to ship past the French customs barrier—and throw scores of thousands of workers into the streets, jobless, there is almost sure to be trouble. Empty stomachs are dangerous."

"I hope things are settled before that time comes. For an outbreak in the Ruhr might easily be accompanied by a spontaneous outburst all over Germany which in turn might precipitate grave events throughout Europe if not the world. For there is no country in Europe today but which is in the throes of terrific unrest."

America—Last Hope.

"I hope America can initiate something. England is afraid France may become the steel boss of Europe. With Ruhr coke and French ore, France would have a 30,000,000-ton output annually against England's 10,000,000-tons. England knows that and is alarmed."

"America is more disinterested and in a better position to interpose. I should like to see President Harding call another conference, similar to the last Washington conference and do for this part of the world what was done for the Pacific and Far East. The world, including the United States, can never get back to normal until real peace comes to Europe."

"The alternative, if we just let things go on, is grim full of menace. The future is dark indeed, unless we get help from the outside. And America, or America and Britain together, is pretty nearly the world's last hope."

SHAHER SAYS PROSECUTIONS WILL CONTINUE

Three Methods of Procedure
Are Now Before Attorneys For State

MEETING IN FARGO

Plan Now Is to Ask Supreme Court to Exercise Superintending Power

REACH DECISION.

Fargo, April 19.—Original proceedings either by complaint in justice court or hearing in grand jury were decided upon as the program of the state in connection with the future policy of Attorney General George Shafer in an effort to fix responsibility for the failure of the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo. It was announced today by Mr. Shafer, following a conference here with Attorney George A. Bangs of Grand Forks.

Mr. Shafer said, however, that this program would be held up pending possible review of the original case by the state supreme court.

The attorney general added that no direct appeal lies in the former action, but that the high court by reason of supervisory powers over district courts has power to call for the records for the purposes of review. A petition to this end will soon be presented to the supreme court he said.

New cases against men charged with wrecking the Scandinavian-American Bank at Fargo may be instituted on complaint or another grand jury called, if the decision of District Judge George W. McKenna in setting aside 35 indictments against J. J. Haugland and others falls.

Attorney-General George F. Shafer, before leaving here last night for Fargo to meet George Bangs of Grand Forks, special assistant attorney-general and W. C. Green, former states attorney of California, authorized the following statement:

"I intend to leave no stone unturned in bringing the persons connected with the wrecking of the Scandinavian-American Bank to trial on the merits as speedily as possible."

Mr. Shafer declined to comment further. It is pointed out here, however, that the two methods open to further procedure against the defendants if the McKenna decision is sustained, are either grand jury indictment again or filing of complaints by Mr. Shafer or others.

Mr. Shafer and Mr. Bangs have decided to ask the supreme court to exercise its superintending and supervisory power over inferior courts and review the decision of District Judge McKenna in quashing the indictments on the ground that the grand jury had considered the case on other grounds. There is no regular method of appeal from such a decision as that of Judge McKenna, Mr. Shafer states. The supreme court of North Dakota, however, has the power under statute to review actions in other courts. It is stated. This point will be pursued unless the conference develops a change.

PLANES SENT WITH AID FOR TEN, STARVING

Northfort, Mich., April 19. Cold, exhausted and half-starved three men who for 48 hours battered their way through slush, ice and open water reached the mainland here yesterday bearing news that ten others—nine men and a woman—are slowly starving on Fox Island, 18 miles from here in Lake Michigan.

As a result of their story—a story of a battle against great odds in which lives were constantly at the mercy of sweeping gales and shifting ice—packs—two army airplanes were on their way from Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, today to carry food to the marooned parties on Fox Island.

The party went to the island last fall to cut timber, carrying provisions sufficient for several months. The prolonged winter, however, did not enter into their calculations. Three weeks ago all food supplies (Continued on Page 6)

5,000 PEOPLE SEE OIL TEST

Gather at Lemmon, South
Dakota, For Oil Well
Blowing

Five thousand people are reported at Lemmon, South Dakota, for the blowing of Davis Well No. 1.

The test, originally set for yesterday, was postponed until this afternoon. It is expected to do much toward answering the question of whether there is oil in paying quantity in southwestern North Dakota, or in South Dakota close to the border.

A Bismarck man at Lemmon telephoned here last night that there were fully 5,000 people in the place, and that food and places to sleep were scarce. Many people came from long distances, special rates being offered.

NATIONAL HEAD OF YEOMEN IS HONORED HERE

G. N. Frink of Des Moines,
Ia., Is Greeted by Bismarck-Mandan Members

G. N. Frink, of Des Moines, Ia., national head of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, was honored here last night at a gathering of Yeomen of Mandan and Bismarck. With Mr. Frink was his wife, supreme treasurer W. H. Senn of Minneapolis and his wife and W. H. Elliott of Fargo, state manager, and wife. Mr. Frink is en route to the west.

The festivities opened with initiatory ceremonies in Patterson hall at 7:30 p. m., the initiation being conducted by the Bismarck lodge. President Frink highly complimented the degree team, saying it was the best in the state. There were 17 candidates from Bismarck and Mandan.

At the banquet which followed in the McKenna hotel, Mr. Elliott was toastmaster. Both Mr. Frink and Mr. Senn spoke.

A dance in Patterson hall followed. More than 100 men and women sat down at the lodge banquet.

Mrs. C. G. Canine of Mandan headed the large delegation from that city. Both Mr. Frink and Mr. Elliott today expressed pleasure over the affair here last night, stating that the banquet was a fine repast served in excellent style, and that the reception throughout showed that the Bismarck and Mandan Home-stands were live organizations.

100 VOLUNTEER DADS WANTED FOR BANQUET

Fathers and Sons Banquet
Will Be Biggest Ever If
They Come Forward

Wanted—75 to 100 dads.

This sign was hung out today by J. J. MacLeod, in charge of getting the Dads and Lads together at the annual Father and Sons banquet to be given at 6:15 o'clock Friday evening at the high school.

There are about 275 boys registered for the banquet, and Mr. MacLeod needs 75 to 100 more men to father boys for the night. Some boys may be disappointed unless he gets this number. Any man who will join in and father one of the boys is asked to call Mr. MacLeod at 460M tonight if possible.

All boys who have not yet met their dads for the night, are asked to be at the high school at 6 o'clock tomorrow night, where they can meet them.

The banquet will be the biggest ever held if a sufficient number of adults come forward.

FINER PREMIER FOR SPEEDING

Bologna, Italy, April 19.—B. Mussolini, the Italian premier, was arrested today and fined as a speeder.

The premier, in his red racing car, was driving at a fast rate of speed when he was stopped by a traffic policeman and hailed before a magistrate who imposed a fine. The policeman was greatly perturbed when the identity of the prisoner became known. The premier, however, had nothing but praise for the officer to whom he said "always do your duty and fear nothing."

$1,700 Guaranteed For Auto Races

Lemmon, S. D., April 19.—The sum of more than $1,700 has thus far been raised as a guarantee for the auto race meet to be held in Lemmon this summer.

According to the plan of the local association the races in Lemmon will follow those at Aberdeen in July. A two-day meet will be held and several thousand dollars in purses offered. It is expected the purses will attract some of the fastest drivers in the northwest.

$5,200 IN PRIZES

Grand Forks, April 19.—Prizes to the amount of $5,200 will be given in premiums to the boys and girls of North Dakota by the state fair association this year, according to the premium list of the boys' and girls club department issued by E. R. Montgomery, secretary of the fair.

STRANGE CASE OF SIMILARITY IS RECORDED; DEAD MAN AND ANOTHER ALIVE BOTH ANSWER DESCRIPTION

Peoria, Ill., April 19.—While Ad Wolgast is claimed to be alive in Los Angeles death Tuesday night of Ed Wolgast at the state insane hospital brings to light one of the strangest cases of similarity on record.

Frances Wolgast, a sister of Ad, telephoned from Cadillac, Michigan, last night inquiring about the dead man and furnishing a complete description of her brother. This checks in almost every detail. Ad has a broken nose, a scar on one of his legs and had a broken arm. So had this man. Ad had a scar from an operation for appendicitis and so had this man. Both are of the same age, same weight and same height.

DON'T BELIEVE STORY.

Milwaukee, April 19.—Little credence is given here to a report that the person who died at a Peoria hospital is Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion pugilist. A Milwaukee sporting man who recently returned from California said that he talked with the fighter at Doyle's gymnasium at Vernon, California, a few weeks ago and a newspaper special from the California city today says Wolgast is still there.

Jamestown, April 19.—The city school election Monday resulted in the re-election of P. W. Eddy and G. O. Feton as members of the board with practically no opposition, although in one precinct, some of the election board were mean enough to accuse one of their number of voting for himself.

HOODED BAND MEN ASKED TO SUBMIT ARREST

15 Defendants Notified by

MURDER CHARGES MADE

Head of, Ku Klux Klan Is Charged with Several
Violations of Law

Bastrop, La., April 19.—Sheriff Fred Carpentier today notified 15 defendants in the Morehouse hooded band cases to surrender to him at the court house here before noon today. Three others charged in connection with the crime are out of the jurisdiction of the sheriff. The state charges all defendants as Ku Klux Klansmen.

Smith Stevenson, Fred Higginbotham and Newt N. Gray surrendered to the sheriff this morning. They said they were ready to make bond and would prepare to fight their cases in court. Capt. J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse Ku Klux Klan, telephoned the sheriff he would surrender.

The bills of information drawn by Attorney General A. B. Cato were brought to Bastrop late yesterday by District Attorney David I. Garrett and filed with the clerk of court of the sixth judicial district, who immediately issued the warrants and placed them in the hands of the sheriff. The most serious of the charges was conspiracy to murder.

Two such charges were made against Capt. Skipwith. There were no other murder conspiracy charges filed.

Capt. Skipwith also was charged with carrying fire arms on the premises of another, compelling a person to leave his home, compelling a person to leave an automobile, conspiring to compel a person to leave his place of business and three charges of assault.

There were several bills of information filed against Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, and now a student at John Hopkins university including conspiring to assault a person, conspiring to compel a person to leave the parish and assault with a dangerous weapon.

CONCERT FOR BAND BENEFIT HERE TONIGHT

Still Opportunity to Purchase
Tickets, Committee in Charge Announces

The Hallowell Musical Company, a Chicago organization nationally known, has planned an especially attractive program for the Band Benefit to be given at 8:15 o'clock in the city Auditorium tonight. The orchestra will have a varied program intended to please all, with a wealth of familiar tunes.

The ticket drive was continuing throughout the day. It was announced by the Band Committee that persons who have not been visited by ticket sellers, may get tickets at the box office tonight. The price is the same in any part of the house and there are no reserved seats, so that one goes to the box office this evening has an equal opportunity in the matter of seats.

The workers in the benefit drive were very much pleased at noon with the result thus far, but they hope that there will be a hundred or two hundred people who have not been seen who will volunteer to aid the development of city band music by purchasing tickets at the door.

Workers in the ticket sale for the juvenile band benefit are: Mrs. Edward Bannion, Mrs. Jos. Breslow, Mrs. H. F. Keller, Mrs. Geo. D. Mann, Mrs. O. Bert Olson, Mrs. H. S. Harris, Mrs. J. I. Setzer, Mrs. F. B. Strauss, Mrs. J. C. Taylor, Mrs. R. H. Tracy, Mrs. Alfred Zuger, Miss Blanche Allen, C. Bertsch, Jos. Breslow, B. M. Dunn, B. E. Jones, H. W. Griffith, W. P. Lomas, George Smith, E. H. Weber, H. J. Woodmansee.

U. S. ASKS BAN BE PLACED ON SUGAR SPECULATORS

Attorney - General Moves

Exchange Today

Sugar Speculators Realized
$900,000 in One Month,
Alleged

SENSATIONAL SLUMP
New York, April 19.—Raw Sugar futures took a perpendicular drop of approximately 50 points on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange today upon receipt of the government suit to enjoin trading in sugar futures. Heavy general selling developed as soon as news of the injunction suit reached the floor. The drop ranged from 30 to 74 points but were followed by a rally which carried prices back 35 points.

Washington, April 19.—Injunction proceedings to shut off trading in sugar, proceedings complete were instituted in New York today by the federal government.

The government bill, prepared under the personal direction of Attorney-General Daugherty after consultation with President Harding, asked the court to prevent the New York sugar and coffee exchange from permanently entering into or permitting any transactions in sugar.

The action is requested, the government says, as a result of "an orgy of speculation" which has driven up the price of sugar to the consumer and which during February enriched the pocketbooks of brokers by $900,000. A conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce is charged and officials of the exchange and of the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing House Association against which the injunction would be directed jointly with the exchange are asked to appear in court and answer the government's allegations.

United States Attorney Hayward, who was in charge locally of the investigation which resulted in the suit, characterized the procedure as "united effort on the part of federal officials to make the gamblers in sugar remove the roulette wheel from the American breakfast table."

NATIONAL HEAD OF YEOMEN IS HONORED HERE

G. N. Frink of Des Moines, Ia., Is Greeted by Bismarck-Mandan Members

G. N. Frink, of Des Moines, Ia., national head of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, was honored here last night at a gathering of Yeomen of Mandan and Bismarck. With Mr. Frink, his wife, the supreme treasurer W. H. Senn of Minneapolis and his wife and W. H. Elliott of Fargo, state manager, and wife, Mr. Frink is en route to the west.

The festivities opened with initiatory ceremonies in Patterson hall at 7:30 p. m., the initiation being conducted by the Bismarck lodge. President Frink highly complimented the degree team, saying it was the best in the state. There were 17 candidates from Bismarck and Mandan.

At the banquet, which followed at the McKenzies hotel, Mr. Elliott was toastmaster. Both Mr. Frink and Mr. Senn spoke.

A dance in Patterson hall followed. More than 100 men and women sat down at the lodge banquet.

Mrs. C. G. Canine of Mandan headed the large delegation from that city. Both Mr. Frink and Mr. Elliott today expressed pleasure over the affair here last night, stating that the banquet was a fine representation in excellent style, and that the reception throughout showed that the Bismarck and Mandan Home-Steeds were live organizations.

EARLY SOLUTION—OR WAR!

Future of Ruhr Tangle, German Steel Head Tells
Tribune Correspondent

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.
Special Cable to NEA Service and
The Bismarck Tribune.

Hamburg, Ruhr, April 19.—Early settlement of the Ruhr question and reparations—or war.

This is the view of Fritz Thyssen, son of Germany's Carnegie, in active control over the enormous Thyssen works which employ 70,000 hands. To get to Fritz Thyssen to interview him was no easy task. Not that young Thyssen is inaccessible, but the sheer physical obstacles in the way were numerous. First I had to find an automobile to take me from Dueseldorf to Hamburg, a distance of about 25 miles. No trains were running. The German trainmen had struck and the French had not yet got the roads working.

This difficulty overcome—and autos for hire are scarce, many having been requisitioned by the French—my next move was to obtain a "Laissez Passer" from the army of occupation. This was readily granted, for the French are not trying to keep newspaper correspondents cooped up and hand-fed as has been reported. They are perfectly free to go and come as they please once the proper papers are obtained.

I found Thyssen in his office at the works here an attractive, though somewhat somber office with a 12-foot wainscoting of heavy black oak. Over the massive table in the center of the room a huge chandelier of wrought-iron hung, draped to throw light on the table only, leaving the rest of the room in shadow. The stained glass windows contained likenesses of U-boats, huge howitzers firing, war planes soaring, and such like.

Preaching Quiet.
Thyssen is of the Schiwa type, somewhat heavy and inclined to smile, rather bitter smiles almost constantly. "We are accused," he told me, "of trying to stir up trouble against the French in the Ruhr. The contrary is true. Every industrialist in the occupied area is preaching calm."

Were it not so, there is no telling what might happen. Chancellor Cuno himself came here from Berlin to plead with the leaders to keep their men quiet—that that was the way to help the government. He did not come, as was said, to preach resistance.

"How much longer we can hold the people as I do not know. They are getting bitterer daily. And they are still at work. When we are forced to shut down—we can't keep piling up stock which we are unable to ship past the French customs barrier—and throw scores of thousands of workers into the streets, jobless, there is almost sure to be trouble. Empty stomachs are dangerous."

"I hope things are settled before that time comes. For an outbreak in the Ruhr might easily be accompanied by a spontaneous outburst all over Germany which in turn might precipitate grave events throughout Europe if not the world. For there is no country in Europe today but which is in the throes of terrific unrest."

America—Last Hope.
"I hope America can initiate something. England is afraid France may become the steel boss of Europe. With Ruhr coke and French ore, France would have a 30,000,000-ton output annually against England's 10,000,000 tons. England knows that and is alarmed."

"America is more disinterested and in a better position to intervene. I should like to see President Harding call another conference, similar to the last Washington conference and do for this part of the world what was done for the Pacific and Far East. The world, including the United States, can never get back to normal until real peace comes to Europe."

"The alternative, if we just let things go on, is grim full of menace. The future is dark indeed, unless we get help from the outside. And America, or America and Britain together, is pretty nearly the world's last hope."

PLANES SENT WITH AID FOR TEN, STARVING

Northfort, Mich., April 19.—Cold, exhausted and half-starved three men who for 48 hours battered their way through slush, ice and open water reached the mainland here yesterday bearing news that ten others—nine men and a woman—are slowly starving on Fox island, 18 miles from here in Lake Michigan.

As a result of their story—a story of a battle against great odds in which lives were constantly at the mercy of sweeping gales and shifting ice packs—two army airplanes were on their way from Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, today to carry food to the marooned parties on Fox island.

The party went to the island last fall to cut timber, carrying provisions sufficient for several months. The prolonged winter, however, did not enter into their calculations. Three weeks ago all food supplies (Continued on Page 6)

$1,700 Guaranteed For Auto Races

Lemmon, S. D., April 19.—The sum of more than $1,700 has thus far been raised for a guarantee for the auto race meet to be held in Lemmon this summer.

According to the plans of the local association the races in Lemmon will follow those at Aberdeen in July. A two-day meet will be held and several thousand dollars in purses offered. It is expected the purses will attract some of the fastest drivers in the northwest.

22,000 IN PRIZES

Grand Forks, April 19.—Prizes to the amount of $22,000 will be given in premiums to the boys and girls of North Dakota by the state fair association this year, according to the premium list of the boys and girls club department issued by E. R. Montgomery, secretary of the fair.

Peoria, Ill., April 19.—While Ad Wolgast is claimed to be alive in Los Angeles death Tuesday night of Ed Wolgast at the state insane hospital brings to light one of the strangest cases of similarity on record.

Frances Wolgast, a sister of Ad, telephoned from Cadillac, Michigan, last night inquiring about the dead man and furnishing a complete description of her brother. This checks in almost every detail. Ad has a broken nose, a scar on one of his legs and had a broken arm. So had this man. Ad had a scar from an operation for appendicitis and so had this man. Both are of the same age, same weight and same height. Ad never had "cauliflower" ears. Neither had this man.

The dead man was taken into the asylum about three months ago. Little is known of him. He has the appearance of having been a prize fighter. The body is being held.

100 VOLUNTEER DADS WANTED FOR BANQUET

Fathers and Sons Banquet
Will Be Biggest Ever If
They Come Forward

Wanted—75 to 100 dads.

This sign was hung out today by J. J. MacLeod, in charge of getting the Dads and Lads together at the annual Father and Sons banquet to be given at 6:15 o'clock Friday evening at the high school.

There are about 275 boys registered for the banquet, and Mr. MacLeod needs 75 to 100 more men to father boys for the night. Some boys may be disappointed unless he gets this number. Any man who will join in and father one of the boys is asked to call Mr. MacLeod at 460M tonight if possible.

All boys who have not yet met their dads for the night, are asked to be at the high school at 6 o'clock tomorrow night, where they can meet them.

The banquet will be the biggest ever held if a sufficient number of adults come forward.

FINE PREMIER FOR SPEEDING

Bologna, Italy, April 19.—B. Mussolini, the Italian premier, was arrested today and fined as a speeder. The premier, in his red racing car, was driving at a fast rate of speed when he was stopped by a traffic policeman and hailed before a magistrate who imposed a fine. The policeman was greatly perturbed when the identity of the prisoner became known. The premier, however, had nothing but praise for the officer to whom he said "always do your duty and fear nothing."

DON'T BELIEVE STORY.
Milwaukee, April 19.—A little credence is given here to a report that the person who died at a Peoria hospital is Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion pugilist. A Milwaukee sporting man who recently returned from California said that he talked with the fighter at Doyle's gymnasium at Vernon, California, a few weeks ago and a newspaper special from the California city today says Wolgast is still there.

MEETING IN FARGO

Plan Now Is to Ask Supreme Court to Exercise Super-
intending Power

REACH DECISION.

Fargo, April 19.—Original proceedings either by complaint in justice court or hearing in grand jury were decided upon as the program of the state in connection with the future policy of Attorney General George Shafer in an effort to fix responsibility for the failure of the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo, which was announced today by Mr. Shafer, following a conference here with Attorney George A. Bangs of Grand Forks.

Mr. Shafer said, however, that this program would be held up pending possible review of the original case by the state supreme court.

The attorney general added that no direct appeal lies in the former action, but that the high court by reason of supervisory powers over district courts has power to call for the records for the purposes of review. A petition to this end will soon be presented to the supreme court he said.

New cases against men charged with wrecking the Scandinavian-American Bank at Fargo may be instituted on complaint or another grand jury called, if the decision of District Judge George W. McKenna in setting aside 35 indictments against A. C. Townley, H. C. Hagen, J. J. Hastings and others fails.

Attorney-General George F. Shafer, before leaving here last night for Fargo to meet George Bangs of Grand Forks, special assistant attorney-general and W. C. Green, former states attorney of Cass county, authorized the following statement:

"I intend to leave no stone unturned to bring the persons connected with the wrecking of the Scandinavian-American Bank to a trial on the merits as speedily as is possible."

Mr. Shafer declined to comment further. It is pointed out here, however, that the two methods open to further procedure against the defendants if the McKenna decision is sustained, are either by grand jury indictment again or by filing of complaints by Mr. Shafer or others.

Mr. Shafer and Mr. Bangs have decided to ask the supreme court to exercise its superintending and supervisory power over inferior courts and review the decision of District Judge McKenna in quashing the indictments on the ground that the grand jury had considered testimony in various cases on mass and other grounds. There is no regular method of appeal from such a decision as that of Judge McKenna, Mr. Shafer states. The supreme court of North Dakota, however, has the power under statute to review actions in other courts, it is stated. This policy will be pursued unless the conference develops a change.

SCHOOL ELECTION
Jamestown, April 19.—The city school election Monday resulted in the re-election of P. W. Eddy and G. O. Feton as members of the board with practically no opposition, although in one precinct, some of the election board were mean enough to accuse one of their number of voting for himself.

Seeding May be General in This Section Within a Week, However

Farmers in this vicinity will be seeding by the end of the week, according to many reports to Bismarck.

The weather in the last week, however, has been unfavorable for sowing work throughout the state. The northern part received more snow than the southern, and in many places the ground is still frozen. The weekly summary of the North Dakota corn and wheat region, issued by the weather bureau, for the week ending April 17, follows:

The weather during the week was unfavorable for farm work. Few reports of seeding in the extreme eastern part of the State early in the week, but field work effectively stopped in all sections by the storm of the 14th. The ground is frozen in many sections and there is still considerable snow on the ground in the northwest portion. Winter rye is in good condition, tame grasses are starting in the south portion, and livestock is generally in good condition. Roads are generally poor in all sections due to the frost coming out of the ground and from snow and rain.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" — bad breath — a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

San Diego, Calif., April 18.—Disagreement of the jury last night ended the trial of Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, charged with the murder of Fritz Mann, a dancer, and today preparations were under way for a second trial soon, probably within a month.

The body of Miss Mann was found last January on a beach near here. Dr. Jacobs, public health service physician at Crown Point, was said to have known Miss Mann intimately and she was said to have consulted about her condition about the time of her death. The state attempted to show that he had registered under an assumed name with Miss Mann at a cottage at La Jolla the night before her body was found. The jury deliberated 30 hours.

Costs

THE FARMERS of the 10 Middle Western States served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are fast becoming the most important consumers of gasoline.

The gasoline tractor has vastly lowered the cost of crop production and the motor truck has come to render a similar service by lowering the cost of delivery. It enables the farmer to deliver his products to nearby cities when the market is advantageous.

To indicate how motor truck farm haulage is increasing, it is interesting to note that—

Farm products hauled by motor transport in 1922 equalled 134,400,000 tons. Sixty-eight hundred head of hogs—valued at $200,000—were delivered in one day from 500 motor trucks to the Stock Yards at Indianapolis, Indiana.

St. Joseph, Missouri—receives about 2500 head of cattle daily by motor truck.

Detroit, Michigan—is supplied daily with 18,570 gallons of milk by the same method of transportation.

The figures above are just a few high spots picked at random from an analysis of facts published by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has long realized that motor power meant increased production of foods, greater profit to the farmer and lower living cost to the consumer.

Therefore, in building up its vast network of distribution this company has kept constantly in mind the public demands from farming centers in locating its bulk storage depots for gasoline and lubricating oils.

In this way the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been able to anticipate the farmers needs in marketing his products from farm to city.

On every heavily traveled highway the Company has found a way to have its products on sale, so that no matter how remote from towns he may be, the motor truck driver always finds a dependable supply of fuel and lubricants convenient to his need.

And yet, gasoline is low in price throughout the 10 Middle Western states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

THE FOUNDATION OF OUR BUSINESS

"Conversation Circulation"

IN the days when "Conversation Circulation" statements were the basis on which the advertiser bought space, the advertising solicitor who put up his story in the most pleasing manner generally got the business. In case the advertiser questioned the figures he might possibly go to the newspaper office and look over the circulation records with his own auditors. But neither he nor his auditors knew the intricacies of newspaper circulation records or the possibilities for juggling figures.

Circulation differences and arguments caused bitter battles between many newspapers. Ingenious schemes were used by unscrupulous publishers to put up the appearance of a larger circulation than they had. The prevalence of these practices brought out the necessity for a reputable agency to audit and report on circulation matters.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations was started eight years ago by a nucleus of the leading advertisers, agents, newspaper, magazines, farm papers, and trade paper publishers. Today it has a membership of 1800. The purpose of the bureau is to make fair and impartial audits of circulation records and it is now accepted as the Standard Authority among space buyers throughout the United States and Canada.

Every Publisher-Member of the Bureau is required to make semi-annual statements setting forth the actual net paid circulation. Once a year the Bureau sends an auditor to the office of each publisher to check and if necessary correct his circulation statements. Study the A. B. C. reports of the publications you are considering and it will not be necessary to argue about competitive circulation.

The Tribune is a member of the A. B. C. and would be pleased to submit a copy of the latest circulation report.

PEACE NEARS IN IRELAND THINK THE FREE STATERS

By NEA Service.

Dublin, April 19.—Civil war in Ireland is nearing an end, Free State officials optimistically say here in discussing the events of the last few days, including the capture and fatal wounding of Liam Lynch, republican chief of staff.

The Free State adherents declare their forces are bearing down on the "scattered remnants" of the republican troops, that the end of organized republican resistance to the government is near. They paint a picture of Ireland at peace, internal warfare over, developing her resources and industries and forging steadily ahead.

But a different sentiment is found among republican sympathizers. The struggle is far from over, say they. The insurgents are strong. The capture of Lynch and the other raids were merely incidents, none of them of far-reaching import.

Await Complete Freedom.
Some day, say the republicans, Ireland will settle down to peace, but that day will be when Ireland is absolutely and unqualifiedly divorced from the British Empire—or Commonwealth of Nations, if you choose.

But however compromising the extreme elements of both factions may be, there is no doubt that the bulk of the Irish, whatever their political creed, eagerly desire a cessation of war.

For the guerrilla warfare that has raged in Ireland since the Free State treaty went into effect, a little more than a year ago, has cost more than $200,000,000 in property damage, disrupted industry and commerce, rendered life unsafe almost everywhere on the island and has caused the death of no one knows how many.

Here is a sketch of the progress of the Irish civil war:
The treaty with England, making Ireland a free state within the British Commonwealth of Nations, was signed Dec. 6, 1921, as the direct result of republican agitation.

Moderate View.
Many republicans, prominent among them Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, regarded the treaty as a decided compromise on the part of the British—something that should gladly be accepted as a stepping-stone to absolute independence.

Others, led by Eamon de Valera, Countess Markievicz, Rory O'Connor and others, would tolerate no submission to the "foreign despot" and regarded the treaty as a capitulation to the British.

On Jan. 9, 1922, De Valera resigned as president and was succeeded by Griffith and on Jan. 14 a provisional government was formed with Collins at its head.

The provisional Free State government immediately started recruiting. Most moderate members of the Irish republican army, which had fought against the British, enlisted under the Free State.

Insurrection Starts.
Others, more extreme, betook themselves to the rural districts. These, under the leadership of De Valera and his supporter, are the heart of the present insurgent body.

These insurgents began a strange new kind of warfare. One day they would appear here, tomorrow there. No one knew who was an insurgent and who loyal to the Free State.

For a time these irregulars confined their military activities to burning bridges and cutting down telephone and telegraph wires.

Later they attacked railway property and then took to burning homes of Free State officials and their supporters and relatives.

In June, 1922, Rory O'Connor with a body of insurgents took possession of the Four Courts Building in the heart of Dublin, ten blocks from the seat of the Free State government.

Battle of Dublin.
Free State forces at first made no effort to dislodge him. But under British pressure, Collins' men stormed the building and succeeded in taking it after a desperate battle.

Most of the insurgents, however, escaped and again took to the countryside where they since have continued their guerrilla operations.

In some cases they have even levied tribute on the people to pay the cost of maintaining their forces. That is the situation in Ireland today.

Both Collins and Griffith, first heads of the Free State government, today are dead. Collins was assassinated by republican sympathizers.

For your own sake as well as for the safety of those about you, get rid of your cold. Colds are contagious and colds are the forerunner of grippe and pneumonia.
Get from the drug store an ordinary twenty-five cent jar of what is known as Mucosolvent Salve. Melt some of this in a spoon, inhale the fumes deeply. The head will open instantly. Next, with little finger apply the salve in each nostril. Now breathe deeply again; this gets the healing vapors into the upper respiratory tract. Repeat every half hour or so until relieved.
If at bed-time tonight your cold is not entirely gone, take a good dose of oil of salts; follow same directions as above and also rub salve thickly on chest, covering same with soft cloth, preferably flannel. Tomorrow you will feel like a new person.

IMMIGRATION BAN LIFTING IS DISCUSSED

Gary Report Is Subject For Discussion by President and Cabinet

Washington, April 18.—Declaration of E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, that the restrictive immigration law had made imminent a serious shortage, served yesterday to draw the attention of government officials to the immigration question and the labor situation.

Both immigration and labor conditions were touched upon by the cabinet at its meetings and Secretary Davis presented a report which, it was said later at the White House, convinced President Harding that Judge Gary was quite correct in his statement that a labor shortage was threatened.

The portion of Judge Gary's statement made at the annual meeting yesterday in Hoboken, N. J., of the United States Steel Corporation's stockholders criticizing the restrictive immigration law and blaming it for the threatened labor scarcity, however, brought replies from several quarters.

Congressman Protest

Chairman Johnson of the house immigration committee, in a formal statement, declared there should be no relation in the restrictions of the act, and ascribed criticism of the statute by large corporations to a

SUGGESTS BOYCOTT.
Urgent appeals for drastic action or firm declarations of support for the investigation into the death of Martin Tabert, Munich, N. D., boy who met death in a Florida prison camp, continued to come to the governor's office here.

J. W. Purnley of Ipswich, South Dakota, declared in a letter that northern people should boycott the south unless conditions reported in southern prison camps are remedied. "If the crime is as terrible as the press dispatches state and officials allow the guilty to go unpunished, I believe the people of the north who spend many winters in milder climates should declare a boycott on that state," Farmer said, referring to Florida. He enclosed a copy of a letter he had written to the governor of Florida declaring that "the entire south is on trial in the Tabert case."

Frank Schmidt, writing from West Bend, Wis., declared that "haven't sleep much since reading this (story on Tabert case) and finally decided to write." He urged drastic action to punish the alleged slayer of Tabert, suggesting he also be lashed.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

BACK YONDER
Old-timers with good memories will look at the calendar June 25, 1926, and say: "It's just 50 years since Custer's Last Fight took place on the Little Big Horn, Montana. Seems like yesterday."

The famous Custer Massacre is fading into the long ago. But it lurks as the great dime-novel thrill of boyhood for millions of us.
For nearly half a century a controversy has raged, whether there was a survivor of Custer's valiant cavalry. The controversy is settled. Uncle Sam has found a survivor—Shuh-shee-ahsh, better known as Curly, a Crow Indian scout now on the pension list.

More than 300 were wiped out on Custer's side. Curly, the only survivor, escaped by mingling with the attacking Indians until he was able to slip away.

The Custer Massacre was Big Stuff 47 years ago. In the World War it would have attracted little attention. We do things on a bigger scale than our ancestors—everything, including killing.

The leading events of 1876 are interesting, by contrast, in 1923. The Philadelphia Centennial took place that year. President Grant and Don Pedro, visiting emperor from Brazil, started the famous Corliss engine that set in motion the machinery of this world's fair with its 190 buildings.

Other big events of 1876:
The first American cremation furnace was completed at Washington, Pa., body of Baron De Palm being the first "job."

Elections were actually taken seriously. Grant had to declare South Carolina in a state of insurrection and send "regulars" there to preserve the peace at the elections. Feeling generally ran so high that soldiers were distributed all through the south and in New York City and Washington, D. C. The Tilden-Hayes dispute.

Over 300 were killed in the stampede at the fire in the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Theater during a performance of "The Two Orphans."

Colorado was admitted to the Union.
The president's secretary was placed on trial for complicity in the great whisky frauds. Acquitted. The Prohibition Reform Party held a convention in Cleveland, nominating Green Clay Smith of Kentucky for president.

President Grant vetoed a bill reducing his salary to $25,000.

Edward Dubufe's celebrated painting, "The Prodigal Son," valued at $100,000 was destroyed at the burning of Melodeon Hall, Cincinnati.

Any one of these lead events of 1876, occurring in 1923, would keep people talking for months. We're still interested basically in the same old things, though we do the things in different ways.

If there is any startling exception, it is that we do not take our national politics as seriously, but whether that's a loss or a gain depends largely on the individual viewpoint.

TREES
We live in a world of mysterious chemical magic. A few drops of water will extinguish a lighted match. Yet the same match, thrown carelessly aside while glowing, may burn millions of acres of forests. A dash of water, plus carefulness, makes the difference.

You'll hear more about forests in the week beginning April 22, set aside by President Harding as "Save the Forest Week." Every week should be a "Save the Forest Week." We're on the way to a treeless nation within another generation unless we conserve.

BOOM
More pig iron was made in our country during March than in any month in history. The March output (3,521,275 tons) smashed the former high record of October, 1916.

A few years ago no one was optimistic or far-sighted enough to believe that a peace-boom could beat the war-boom production of iron. The "impossible" has happened again. There's a difference, though. We're paying hand-to-mouth. In the war boom we were spending Liberty bond money—mortgaging the future. Explains why profits and incomes are smaller now, for individuals as well as corporations.

EATS
Crops of lettuce and early asparagus will be larger this year than last, Department of Agriculture predicts. But crops of early cabbage and tomatoes will be smaller. Tell the wife. This is important news to her.

The department does its forecasting by analyzing the reports sent from its thousands of agents. June 25 it will try a new stunt—estimate cotton acreage by taking photographs from airplanes in selected districts. Something new under the sun.

HOME
A young lady of New York City, married and taken to President Harding's home town a few months ago languishes with homesickness. She went home on a visit. The other day, when time to return to Marion, she attempted suicide by swallowing iodine. She'd rather die than leave New York.

Many other young ladies would rather die than leave Marion.
When all's said and done, home and friends count most in life. Nothing else really matters. Bromide, possibly—but not to anyone who has ever been really homesick.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

OUR NEW RELATIONS WITH JAPAN

Formal announcements by the Washington and Tokyo governments of a mutual understanding that the Lansing-Ishii agreement negotiated late in 1917 is cancelled and without further force or effect will be received with widespread satisfaction in this country.

It will be observed that this agreement was reached a few months after the United States became a belligerent in the World War. The exigencies of the situation at that time actuated the then Secretary of State, Mr. Lansing, to commit this government in a way that proved perceptibly embarrassing until the treaties negotiated in the Washington armament conference were signed and ratified by the two countries.

Mr. Lansing had accepted the principle that Japan had certain "special interests" in China on account of the proximity of the two oriental countries. Subsequently, there arose a discrepancy in interpretations, with the result that a great deal of criticism and even of censure swirled about the head of the Secretary of State on the ground that he had transgressed the traditions of this government regarding the "open door" and equality of opportunity in China.

The letter and spirit of those traditions were revived in the Washington treaties. These later agreements now supersede and stand in lieu of the Lansing-Ishii understanding, and a complaint of five years has been fully satisfied. Whatever ambiguities there were in American-Japanese diplomatic understandings regarding China have been removed. The outcome besides clarifying the relations of these two countries should serve to re-establish the United States in a measure of favor with China that had been seriously impaired because of the doubtful implications of the Lansing-Ishii understanding.

Secretary Hughes revealed himself as both a business man of sound judgment and a statesman of clear vision in entering quietly and personally into conference with Ambassador Hanlraha looking to abrogation of the embarrassing understanding. The whole incident, ending with the announcement just made, is an illuminating light on the mutual attitude of friendliness which prevails as between Washington and Tokyo. The "jingo" business in both countries has just about subsided. While this business was "going strong" it carried a menace that neither nation could afford to be disturbed by.

Japan is bound to have many commercial advantages in China over this country, barring boycotts and other organized expressions of Chinese against the Mikado's people, but the "open door" and "equality of opportunity" principle, written into diplomatic annals, is none the less important and desirable. ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The army of wooden soldiers in Bing-Bang Land stood waiting. General Nick stood at their head. Nurse Nancy sat quietly in her ambulance.

Up in the air floated the army balloon, tied to the end of a string. Private Ram Rod was in it (or under it) watching.

Bye and bye a little parachute came fluttering down from the balloon with a stone and a note tied to it.

General Nick opened the note and read:
"In shoulders getting ready for battle. Army of red tin soldiers on right. Blue tin soldiers on left. Cavalry in middle. Big guns behind."

General Nick folded the note and stuck it in his pocket.
"Captain Buttons," he called.

Captain Buttons stepped forward. "Pass around the shooting crackers and give each man a torpedo," said the commander.

"Yes, sir," said Captain Buttons saluting.
"Major Starch Front!" called General Nick next.

"Yes, sir!" said Major Starch Front stepping out and saluting. "Give each man a pop gun."

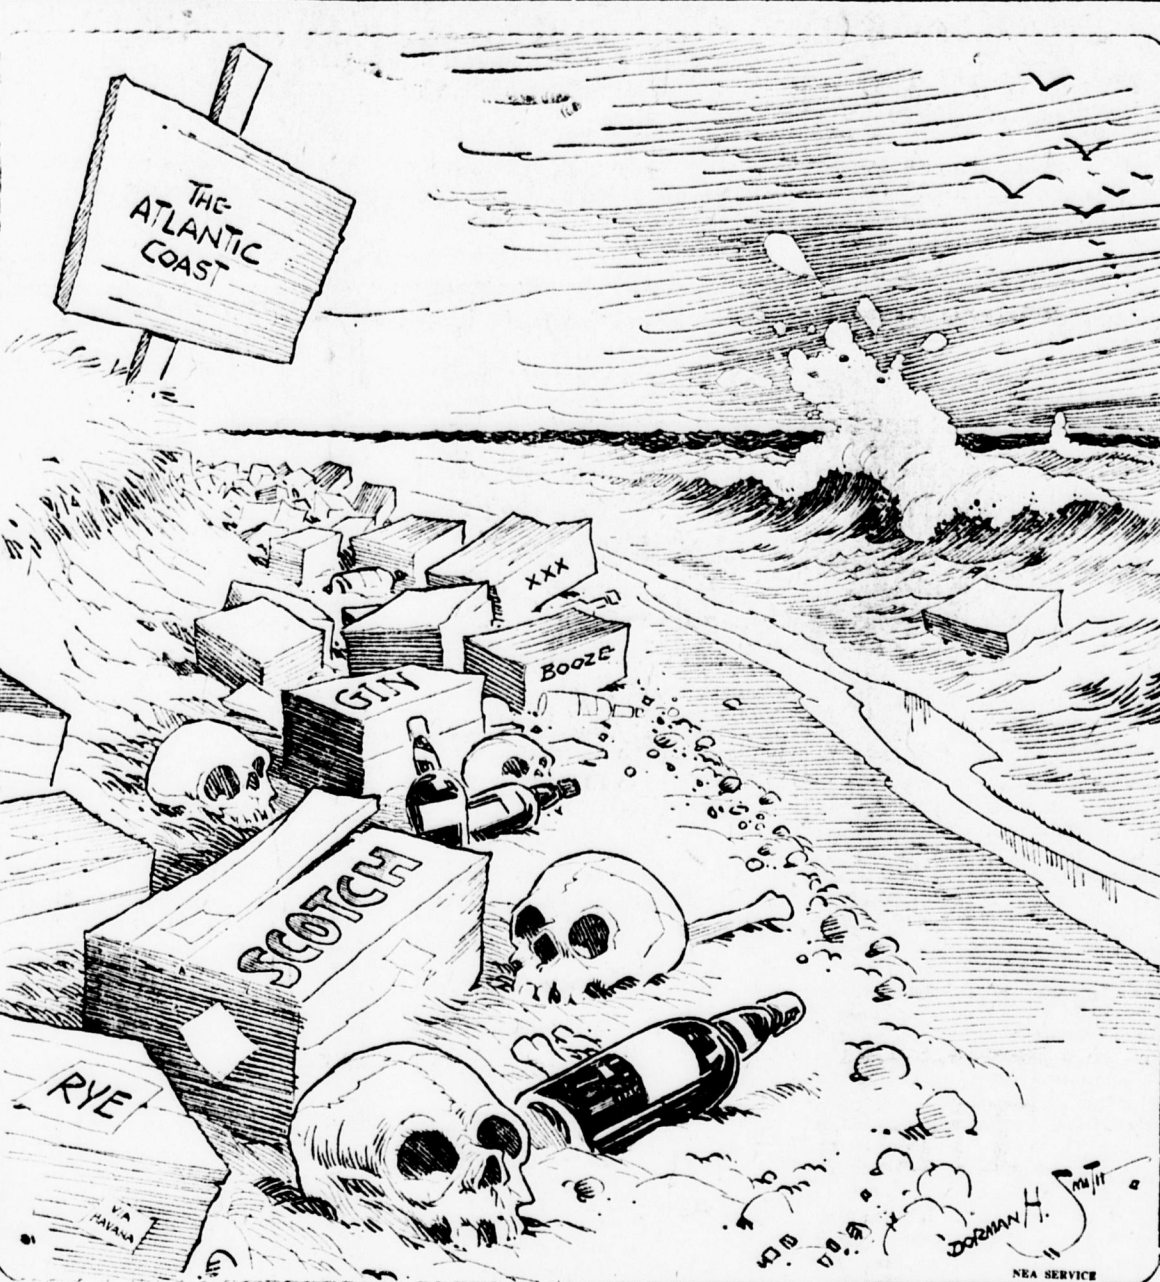

"Very good, sir," replied the major.
Soon the army was ready for battle.

The flag bearer waved his flag and the drummer beat his drum and General Nick stood very straight with his sword over his shoulder. Suddenly he called out, "Forward! March!"

The army stepped out.
"Charge!" cried the general. The army ran.

As soon as they saw the enemy, General Nick gave the order to fire. Torpedoes, fire crackers and pop guns did the work.

LETTER FROM SALLY AHTERTON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW, FRIENDS OF THE NEWLY-WED JOHN ALDEN PRESICOTT

Oh Bee, I am having my troubles. Yesterday my boss kept me very late at the office. Of course I realize he isn't supposed to know that after I arrive home every night I have to get my husband's dinner, but I do think it is rather inconsiderate of him to start to dictate to me just a little before five and expect me to get out the letters for him that night.

Naturally I want to be quite as good as a man would be under the same conditions, but I noticed that when I left the office after six o'clock there wasn't a male stenographer at my desk. This morning when I arrived at the office I also found Mr. Ward had not returned to sign the letters and mail them, although he said he was staying down town for that very purpose and he had impressed upon me the importance of their going out on the evening mail.

When I arrived home it didn't help matters any to find that Sam was already there but, instead of starting anything for dinner, I found him looking decidedly surly because I was late. He said Mr. Ward was a hog and that, under the circumstances, he would have refused to work overtime. Now you and I know very well he would have done nothing of the kind.

Dear Bee, I have almost come to the conclusion that the old adage is right which reads, "The way to a man's love is through his stomach." Sam should know if he thinks about my work that I must stay at the office as long as Mr. Ward wishes. I always get up quite early in the morning so that I can arrange our dinner in a way that entails the least work and the quickest time in getting it on the table at night, but Sam had not even lighted the gas under the potatoes.

I wonder if I am really wrong. I wonder if I have begun my married life by making a mistake the first thing. I wonder if no woman can be both a business woman and a housekeeper. I was so sure that I could be both, but I find my nerves getting frazzled and I have begun to suspect that I am doing neither the work in the house nor the work in the office with a hundred per cent efficiency.

Sam seems to think that his business is paramount. He is always talking about how hard he works and, some way, I believe he never realizes that I am doing anything in the office.

That old idea that a woman never works, even if she draws a salary, is dying hard in the minds of men. I had an idea that keeping house meant nothing in the world to do, but I have found that keeping a house neat and clean and getting appetizing meals takes much longer time and more thinking than I had ever dreamed. Bee, it is a business all by itself.

Don't think I am finding fault. I am just disappointed that my theories haven't seemed to work out. Perhaps in a little while I will be come adjusted and everything will come out all right. I've just had to let off steam. Expect a letter soon, all about the wedding of Leila Hamilton and John Alden Prescott.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

This is an exceptionally good comedy drama. As a newspaper story, it is distinctly superior and Vitaphone is to be congratulated for its production. In any community it should be a success and live up to its title, proving to be "A Front Page Story" in your theatre records.

Politics and the small town newspaper prove lively subject matter. There is so much good comedy in the picture that it will be popular for this, if for no other reason. But there are other reasons, such as a capable cast, expert directing and smooth continuity.

This feature will be shown at the Capitol theater tomorrow and Saturday.

THE ELTINGE

What is declared to be one of the most picturesque and vivid dramas of the sea ever screened will be shown at the Eltinge theatre on Friday and Saturday, when "Fury," a First National picture starring Richard Barthelmess, begins an engagement of two days.

Mr. Barthelmess has surrounded himself with an excellent cast, the most important roles next to his own being portrayed by Dorothy Gish, Tyrone Power, Pat Hartigan, Barry Macollum and Jessie Arnold.

The popular star has the role of a seared young second mate of a four-masted schooner who loses all of his timidity when he learns of the great injustice that has been done his unfortunate mother. His plans to avenge the wrong upsets the arrangements he had made to elope with a little London waitress and lead to a most dramatic denouement at sea—and an unexpectedly happy ending.

The Clay I Use

White, refined super-clay

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Some think that facial clays are new. Not so. Beauties of all ages have employed them. Most of the famous belles of history owed their beauty to complexion clays.

But, until late years, few women fostered and preserved their beauty. Now millions do, and clay is a prime essential.

What I Owe To Clay

About 1900, French beauty experts taught me the use of clay. Now, at a grandmother's age, I look like a girl of 19. After 32 years as a stage star, I still play young girls' parts. And millions marvel at my youthful beauty.

I have supplied my methods to scores of friends. They enhanced their beauty by them, and they kept their youth. So I am convinced that most girls and women can do likewise if they will. And I am going to help them.

A Perfected Clay

The clay I use is not the crude and muddy clay so many use today. That is out of date. Able scientists in France have been studying clays for 20 years and over. And they have perfected clay.

They have found those rare clays, mineral-laden, which bring maximum results. They have learned how to refine them to remove the useless mud. The clay I use is white and clean and dainty.

They have found added factors which bring manifold results. So my White Youth Clay will be a revelation to a user of other clays.

Clay is Essential

No girl or woman can look her best without the use of clay. Nor can a woman keep her youthful bloom and contour, as I have. Users of clay stand out in any crowd.

Clay purges the skin of all that clogs it—the causes of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes.

It draws the blood to the skin to nourish and renew it. The result is a rosy afterglow, then a lasting new complexion.

It arms the skin, combats the cause of wrinkles, takes out lines, reduces enlarged pores. Thus it gives and maintains a smooth, soft, baby-like complexion.

The results are amazing—almost unbelievable at first. Many women, in 30 minutes seem to drop ten years. And my girlish face, at my grand old age, shows what constant use can do.

You cannot afford to miss these benefits. They mean too much to you. But use a modern scientific clay. My White Youth Clay, they tell me, is the last word in facial clays.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is now supplied by all druggists and toilet goods dealers. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream, based on lemon and strawberry. This should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

In fairness to yourself, see what Youth Clay does. You will ever thank me for it. If the first tube fails to delight you, your dealer will return its price.

BACK YONDER
Old-timers with good memories will look at the calendar June 25, 1926, and say: "It's just 50 years since Custer's Last Fight took place on the Little Big Horn, Montana. Seems like yesterday."
The famous Custer Massacre is fading into the long ago. But it lurks as the great dime-novel thrill of boyhood for millions of us.
For nearly half a century a controversy has raged, whether there was a survivor of Custer's valiant cavalry. The controversy is settled. Uncle Sam has found a survivor—Shuh-shee-ah-sh, better known as Curly, a Crow Indian scout now on the pension list.
More than 300 were wiped out on Custer's side. Curly, the only survivor, escaped by mingling with the attacking Indians until he was able to slip away.
The Custer Massacre was Big Stuff 47 years ago. In the World War it would have attracted little attention. We do things on a bigger scale than our ancestors—everything, including killing.
The leading events of 1876 are interesting, by contrast, in 1923. The Philadelphia Centennial took place that year. President Grant and Don Pedro, visiting emperor from Brazil, started the famous Corliss engine that set in motion the machinery of this world's fair with its 190 buildings.
Other big events of 1876:
The first American cremation furnace was completed at Washington, Pa., body of Baron De Palm being the first "job."
Elections were actually taken seriously. Grant had to declare South Carolina in a state of insurrection and send "regulars" there to preserve the peace at the elections. Feeling generally ran so high that soldiers were distributed all through the south and in New York City and Washington, D. C. The Tilden-Hayes dispute.
Over 300 were killed in the stampede at the fire in the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Theater during a performance of "The Two Orphans."
Colorado was admitted to the Union.
The president's secretary was placed on trial for complicity in the great whisky frauds. Acquitted. The Prohibition Reform Party held a convention in Cleveland, nominating Green Clay Smith of Kentucky for president.
President Grant vetoed a bill reducing his salary to $25,000.
Edward Dubuque celebrated painting, "The Prodigal Son," valued at $100,000 was destroyed at the burning of Melodeon Hall, Cincinnati.
Any one of these lead events of 1876, occurring in 1923, would keep people talking for months. We're still interested basically in the same old things, though we do the things in different ways.
If there is any startling exception, it is that we do not take our national politics as seriously, but whether that's a loss or a gain depends largely on the individual viewpoint.

EDITORIAL REVIEW
Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.
OUR NEW RELATIONS WITH JAPAN
Formal announcements by the Washington and Tokyo governments of a mutual understanding that the Lansing-Ishii agreement negotiated late in 1917 is cancelled and without further force or effect will be received with widespread satisfaction in this country.
It will be observed that this agreement was reached a few months after the United States became a belligerent in the World War. The exigencies of the situation at that time actuated the then Secretary of State, Mr. Lansing, to commit this government in a way that proved perceptibly embarrassing until the treaties negotiated in the Washington conference were signed and ratified by the two countries.
Mr. Lansing had accepted the principle that Japan had certain "special interests" in China on account of the proximity of the two oriental countries. Subsequently there arose a discrepancy in interpretations, with the result that a great deal of criticism and even of enures swirled about the head of the Secretary of State on the ground that he had transgressed the traditions of this government regarding the "open door" and equality of opportunity in China.
The letter and spirit of those traditions were revived in the Washington treaties. These later agreements now supersede and stand in lieu of the Lansing-Ishii understanding and a complaint of five years has been fully satisfied. Whatever ambiguities there were in American-Japanese diplomatic understandings regarding China have been removed. The outcome, besides clarifying the relations of these two countries, should serve to re-establish the United States in a measure of favor with China that had been seriously impaired because of the doubtful implications of the Lansing-Ishii understanding.
Secretary Hughes revealed himself as both a business man of sound judgment and a statesman of clear vision in entering quietly and personally into conference with Ambassador Ishihara looking to abrogation of the embarrassing understanding. The whole incident, ending with the announcement just made, is an illustration of the mutual attitude of friendliness which prevails as between Washington and Tokyo. The "Jingo" business in both countries has just about subsided. While this business was "glove-strong" it carried a menace that neither nation could afford to be disturbed by.
Japan is bound to have many commercial advantages in China over this country, barring boycotts and other organized expressions of Chinese against the Mikado's people, but the "open door" and "equal opportunity" principle, written into diplomatic annals, is none the less important and desirable—Minneapolis Tribune.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
The army of wooden soldiers in Bing-Bang Land stood waiting. General Nick stood at their head. Nurse Nancy sat quietly in her ambulance.
Up in the air floated the army balloon to the end of a string. Private Rat had won in it (or under it) watching.
Bye and bye a little parachute came fluttering down from the balloon with a stomp and a note tied to it.
General Nick opened the note and read:
"Tin shoulders getting ready for battle. Army of red tin soldiers on right. Blue tin soldiers on left. Cavalry in middle. Big guns behind."
General Nick folded the note and stuck it in his pocket.
"Captain Buttons," he called.
"Pass around the shooting cracker," said the commander.
"Yes, sir," said Captain Buttons saluting.
"Major Starch Front!" called General Nick next.
"Yes, sir," said Major Starch Front, stepping out and saluting.
"Give each man a pop gun."
"Very good, sir," replied the major.
Soon the army was ready for battle.
The flag bearer waved his flag and the drummer beat his drum and General Nick stood very straight with his sword over his shoulder. Suddenly he called out, "Forward! March!"
The army stepped out.
"Charge!" cried the general.
The army ran.
As soon as they saw the enemy, General Nick gave the order to fire. Terrible fire crackers and pop guns did the work.
Soon not a tin soldier or tin horse was standing. The wooden soldiers captured the cannon and dragged them away, also they captured some prisoners.
"Hoorsay! We've won," they cried.
To Be Continued.

The Tangle
An Intimate Study of Human Nature
LETTER FROM SALLY AHTERTON TO HEATHCOTE GRIMSHAW, FRIENDS OF THE NEWLY-WED JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTTS
Oh Hee, I am having my troubles. Yesterday my boss kept me very late at the office. Of course I realize he isn't supposed to know that after I arrive home every night I have to get my husband's dinner, but I do think it is rather inconsiderate of him to start to dictate to me just a little before five and expect me to get out the letters for him that night.
Naturally I want to be quite as good as a man would be under the same conditions, but I noticed that when I left the office after six o'clock there wasn't a male stenographer at his desk. This morning when I arrived at the office I also found Mr. Ward had not returned to sign the letters and mail them, although he said he was staying down town for that very purpose and he had impressed upon me the importance of their going out on the evening mail.
When I arrived home it didn't help matters any to find that Sam was already there but, instead of starting anything for dinner, I found him looking decidedly surly because I was late. He said Mr. Ward was a hog and that, under the circumstances, he would have refused to work overtime. Now you and I are very well he would have done nothing of the kind.
Dear Bee, I have almost come to the conclusion that the old adage is right which reads, "The way to a man's love is through his stomach." Sam should know if he thinks about my work—that I must stay at the office as long as Mr. Ward wishes. I always get up quite early in the morning so that I can arrange our dinner in a way that entails the least work and the quickest time in getting it on the table at night, but Sam had not even lighted the gas under the jobbers.
I wonder if I have begun my married life by making a mistake the first thing. I wonder if no woman can be both a business woman and a housekeeper. I was so sure that I could be both, but I find my nerve getting frazzled and I have begun to suspect that I am doing neither the work in the house nor the work in the office with a hundred per cent efficiency.
Sam seems to think that his business is paramount. He is always talking about how hard he works, and some way, I believe he realizes that I am doing anything at all in the office.
That old idea that a woman never works, even if she draws a salary, is dying hard in the minds of men. I would not have a man keep house, but I have found that keeping house neat and clean and getting up petting meals takes much longer time and more thinking than I have ever dreamed. Bee, it is a bushy by itself.
Don't think I am finding fault. I am just disappointed that men are doing hard in the minds of men. Perhaps in a little while I will be come adjusted and everything will come out all right. I've just had to let off steam. Expect a letter soon, all about the wedding of Leslie Hamilton and John Alden Prescott.
SALLY.

BASEBALL IS UP TO FANS

City Asked to Enter Into a Four-Team League

The question of whether Bismarck will have baseball this year remains with the fans. The city has been urged to enter a four-team league composed of Jamestown, Valley City and Bismarck, to have Class D organized small three days each week, beginning May 25 and ending about the middle of August.

The matter was discussed informally by a number of fans last night. A general meeting may be sought within a few days. It is proposed to organize a stock company with $5,000 capital to run the team and take over the present property, which is of considerable value.

KEARNS DENIES SHELBY MATCH

Los Angeles, April 19.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight pugilist, denied that arrangements had been completed for a match between Dempsey and Tommy Gibson, of St. Paul, announced in Salt Lake City by Eddie Kane, manager of Gibson.

"Negotiations are under way for such a match, but it has not been closed," Kearns said. "I am endeavoring to match Dempsey with some one for a bout on or about July 4."

Davey Jones Great Name For Swimming Champ

DAVEY JONES

Brown university, always to the front in athletics, is mighty proud of Davey Jones, captain of Brown's great swimming team. Eastern experts regard Jones as the leading swimmer in the east, and look for him as well as the Brown team to smash some aquatic records.

next but do not know whether it will be Willard, Gibbons, Willis, Firpo or some other boxer.

"I expect to leave for New York next Friday and the question of Dempsey's next opponent will remain undecided until I reach that city at least."

BABE RUTH IN BIG COME-BACK

New York, April 19.—Babe Ruth came back into his own yesterday. When the mighty Yankee slugger cracked his first home run in the season far into the right field bleachers of the massive new Yankee stadium, 74,200 howling fans—the largest throng that ever attended a baseball game—rose and accorded their idol a thunderous ovation.

Ruth's circuit clout, clinching victory for the American League champions in their opening game with the Boston Red Sox added the most touch needed to complete the most picturesque drama in diamond annals. The Babe, those thousands agreed, had come back.

Child Welfare Week is to be featured by a regular honest-to-goodness "kid" parade, band, costumes and all, if plans made Tuesday by the committee materialize. Thursday, May 10, will be the big day when Mandan will do honor to her youngest citizens.

It will be a sidewalk parade and city officials will be asked to keep the way open for the babies. Babies in carriages, wheeled by proud mothers (or fathers); babies in strollers, carts; babies in wagons, on kiddie cars—all kinds of babies will be there.

One division will be devoted to the boys who have wagons, especially those drawn by dog-pals; another group will have tricycles, another "bikes." In short every vehicle upon which a "kid" can ride is eligible to enter the parade.

excepting some frozen potatoes were gone.

With death from starvation facing the little colony an attempt was made by four men to cross to the mainland. They started on foot but two miles from the island the ice broke up and two of the men narrowly escaped death from drowning before the return to the island was accomplished.

A week later the men started again but when two miles out they were caught in a blinding snow storm. They wandered about uncertain of their direction for nearly a day before finding their way back to the island.

You can always count on its A-1 condition—neither too moist nor too dry. It doesn't stay long in a dealer's stock. It is too quick a seller for that.

Make Third Start

Last Monday a third start was made. Four men set out from the island in skiff eight feet long. They carried one pair of oars and a pole and an ax. They had no food. Nearing starvation they took turns at the oars and when their progress was blocked by flows they hauled the craft across the ice.

Finally when their boat sprang a leak and sank about eight miles from a mainland they got on a large chunk of ice from a flow and continued their hazardous journey toward land using poles to propel their ice craft. The last stage of the trip was made by foot across short stretches of ice.

Fell in Water

Twice one of the men fell in the water and it was only with extreme difficulty that his companions succeeded in hauling him out again.

The army air plane which set out today with food supplies are expected here this afternoon.

Girls! Lemons Bleach Freckles

Make this Lemon Cream and Just See Tan, Freckles Disappear

Mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful freckle and tan cream, and complexion beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon cream into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes naturally bleach right out and how youthfully clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes.

Following the banquet there was card playing and other entertainment. The committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet included Paul Cook and S. O. LeBaron.

The event also was in observance of the 38th anniversary of the founding of the lodge. WHEAT DECREASE IN ACREAGE IN THE NORTHWEST

Wheat Price Influenced in Chicago Mart Because Of This

Chicago, April 19.—Influenced by unlooked-for strength in Liverpool quotations the wheat market showed a tendency to rise during the early dealings. Bullish reports as to probably decreased acreage in the Northwest, especially in South Dakota, likewise had an effect and so did dust storms of lack of moisture in part of the inter crop belt. On the price up, however, selling increased, the opening, which ranged from 104 to 104 1/2, was followed by a moderate reaction and then by rallies.

Subsequently an estimate that the 1923 winter wheat crop would be 400,000 bushels less than was harvested in 1922 gave an additional lift. The close was firm 1/2 to 1 cent net higher with May, 1.23 1/2 to 1.23 3/4, and July, 1.21 1/4 to 1.21 3/4.

BASEBALL IS UP TO FANS

City Asked to Enter into a Four-Team League

The question of whether Bismarck will have baseball this year remains with the fans.

The city has been urged to enter a four team league composed of Bismarck, Jamestown, Valley City and Dickinson. To have (Class D) organized ball three days each week, beginning May 25 and ending about the middle of August.

The matter was discussed informally by a number of fans last night. A general meeting may be sought within a few days. It is proposed to organize a stock company with $5,000 capital to run the team and take over the present property, which is of considerable value.

New York, April 18.—Before a record throng officially announced as 71,200, the New York Yankees, American League champions, opened their season last night and the 1923 season with a 1 to 1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees did all of their scoring in the third inning. Babe Ruth, batting off to a lousy start in his 123 home run campaign by driving into the right field bleachers for the present, scoring Witt and Dugan ahead of him.

Bub Shawkey, veteran Yankee hurler, pitched brilliantly, holding the Red Sox to three hits, one of which, a triple by McMillan, scored the only Boston run in the seventh. Shawkey was effective except in the third inning.

New York, April 19.—Babe Ruth came back into his own yesterday.

Ruth's circuit clout, clinching victory for the American League champions in their opening game with the Boston Red Sox, added the one touch needed to complete the most picturesque drama in diamond annals. The Babe, those thousands agreed, had come back.

Make Third Start.

Last Monday a third start was made. Four men set out from the island in skiff eight feet long. They carried one pair of oars and a pole and an ax. They had no food. Neatly starved they took turns at the oars and when their progress was blocked by flows they hauled the craft across the ice.

Finally when their boat sprang a leak and sank about eight miles from a mainland they got on a large chunk of ice from a flow and continued their hazardous journey toward land using poles to propel their ice craft. The last stage of the trip was made by foot across short stretches of ice.

Fell In Water.

Twice one of the men fell in the water and it was only with extreme difficulty that his companions succeeded in hauling him out again.

The army air plane which set out today with food supplies are expected here this afternoon.

PLAYGROUND STAFF HOLD FIRST MEET

Thirty-Four Volunteer Teachers Attend First Meeting At High School

MRS. KLING INSTRUCTOR

Expect to Run Three or Four Playgrounds for Children of All Ages

Bismarck's first steps in the actual organization of a staff to supervise the playgrounds during the summer months were taken last night at a meeting of 34 volunteer teachers with J. M. MacLeod and Mrs. J. Henry Kling at the high school gymnasium.

Mrs. H. F. Keller spoke briefly upon the purpose of the meeting and introduced Mrs. Kling, who outlined the history of the play. She was followed by Mr. MacLeod who took charge of arrangements for the work of the teachers.

It was decided that either two or three playgrounds with supervisors would be taken care of during the summer, and it was thought that one would be at the Wacker school, one at Richholt, and one at either Will's school or North Ward, with one general director and three or four assistants in charge of each playground.

While not definitely decided, it was thought that there would probably be a morning period of playground work from about 9 to 11 o'clock and an evening period from 7 to 9 o'clock at the different playgrounds. Classes would be held on certain days of the week to be decided later.

In order to have efficient direction at the grounds the corps of teachers who have volunteered their services for one or two days a week will be instructed in playground work by Mrs. Kling every Tuesday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Mr. MacLeod will act as general advisor.

During the month which will be devoted to the training of the volunteer teachers definite arrangements will be made in regard to the playground schedule.

In order that none of the children of the city will be neglected, it is expected that classes will be arranged to meet the needs of all that come to the playgrounds. The older children will be instructed in games suitable for their years. To obtain the paraphernalia necessary for stocking up a playground, the citizens of Bismarck are asked to donate any tennis nets, lawn balls, or playground apparatus which they are not using and would be glad to see in use. Any women or girls of the city who have not yet signed up to act as instructors or supervisors of the playgrounds for a certain day of the week during the summer are asked to do so, for the larger the corps of teachers the more efficient the work which can be done during the summer and with the lighter weight of duty resting upon the individuals.

In outlining the functions of play Mrs. Kling stated that there were three theories held regarding it: That play is the natural outlet of the surplus energy that has accumulated in a vigorous organism; that play is an instinct, the purpose of which is the education of the individual; that play is the motor habits and spirits of the past of the race persisting in the present.

"The difference between play and work is that play is always the pleasure of the activity itself, while work has always some end beyond the activity," said Mrs. Kling. In developing the idea she explained the physical and social stages in play.

The volunteer teachers attending the beginning class last night included the following:

Dorothy Moses, Mrs. C. W. Moses, Mrs. G. F. Dullam, Mrs. F. E. Hanson, Mrs. H. F. Keller, Mrs. G. D. Mann, Helen M. Will, Ethel Funston, Elizabeth Wetmore, Grace B. Trethewey, Elizabeth Butler, Jean MacLeod, Wilma Olson, Lucille Fisher, Catherine McLaughlin, Elaine Bowman, Edna Stading, Elsie Yeasley, Barbara Register, Anna Katz, Dorothy Birdzell, Alice Larson, Era Bell Thompson, Clara Dralle, Nellie Dance, Clara Hultberg, Mrs. Edward Bannon, and Mrs. Ralph Penner.

Orin L. French Declares He Also Gained Fifteen Pounds Taking Tanlac Treatment.

"Tanlac built me up fifteen pounds and made my system a reservoir of new life and energy," was the characteristic statement of Orin L. French, prominent citizen of South St. Paul, Minn., residing at 925 Messer Ave.

"I suffered from indigestion, constipation, sleeplessness and a tired, run-down condition that made me so weak I could hardly move. I had throbbing headaches and dizzy spells when I would nearly fall down. I was also troubled with gas on my stomach and heartburn, rheumatic pains in my arms and legs, and altogether my burden of misery seemed to be all I could stand."

"One day I heard some men having a regular Tanlac talk-test and it was lucky for me, because what they said started me taking the medicine. Now I feel like a new man, sleep soundly, eat anything I want without trouble afterwards, and haven't an ache or a pain. Tanlac has won my undying gratitude. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold."

Firestone will not increase prices until May 1st

Firestone Prices on Fabric and Cord Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, also Solid and Pneumatic Truck Tires Will Advance May 1st

The postponement of this price revision is possible only because of our realization of the price danger in the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act which became effective November 1, 1922. We were fortunate in our rubber purchases before the Restriction Act increased the price of crude rubber 150%.

We have always endeavored to champion the cause of better made tires delivered at lowest cost to the tire user by economic manufacturing and distribution. And we are glad of the opportunity to give the car-owner the additional saving at this time.

Firestone Cords embody certain special processes which result in their producing mileage records, heretofore unheard-of in the industry. Among the more important of these superior methods are blending, tempering, air-bag cure and double gum-dipping.

Firestone Dealers are co-operating with us in our movement to supply your needs at present prices as long as their stock lasts and we have advised our dealers that we will supply them with additional tires this month only so far as our output will permit.

See the nearest Firestone Dealer. Purchase a set of these Gum-Dipped Cords. Prove for yourself their remarkable mileage advantages and easy riding qualities.
